

Scale Patterns

Noteheads without stems are cadence notes- notes that resemble the tonal center of western music. Songs typically end on these pitches, and typically, these pitches are often repeated one after another.